China's Miracle in Foreign Trade Apr 12 2021 This book mainly focuses on the miracle of China's foreign trade in the past 40 years from five perspectives: first, it briefly reviews the import substitution strategy China adopted before its opening-up; second, it analyzes the export-oriented strategy that contributes a lot to China's economic growth since 1980s; third, it discusses the impacts of trade liberalization and China's participation in WTO on Chinese firms; forth, it addresses the deepening opening-up in the context of global financial crisis; last, it provides policy advice on China's newly conducted all-around opening-up strategy. By dividing China's opening-up into five stages, this book offers a comprehensive discussion to understand and analyze the reason, performance and challenge of China's economic growth from the perspective of foreign trade.

Prospects for Foreign Trade in Tobacco May 14 2021 Excerpt from Prospects for Foreign Trade in Tobacco: March 1959 In 1959, the decline is expected to be slowed by increasing gold and dollar reserves in Western Europe, principal market for U. S. Tobacco, and by growing world demand for light-type cigarettes, made mainly from flue-cured and Burley, tobaccos in which the United States specializes. Over the next decade, rising foreign production, barriers to the free movement of trade, and the price of U. S. Tobacco are likely to preclude any increase in U. S. Tobacco exports. In fact, they are more likely to contribute to a further decrease, despite steadily increasing tobacco consumption in foreign markets. Beyond that, tobacco consumption abroad may rise enough to bring total demand up to a level that will help raise U. S. Exports on an absolute basis. But the U. S. Share of the world trade is expected to go on declining.

Last year that share was 33 percent compared with 34 percent in 1957, 36 percent in 1956, 38 percent in 1950-54, and 43 percent in 1947-51. Foreign Trade in the Transition Jan 02 2023 World Bank Discussion Paper No. 323. Presents a framework for evaluating the level and composition of public expenditures. The paper applies the framework to the analysis of intrasectoral allocations within key sectors, intersectoral allocations across sectors, and allocations for major cross-sectoral expenditure categories. It identifies the elements that should be an integral part of an ongoing exercise in analyzing the level and composition of public spending and highlights the importance of the institutional policy environment that determines these allocations and their outcomes.

Market Structure and Foreign Trade Dec 01 2022 Market Structure and Foreign Trade presents a coherent theory of trade in the presence of market structures other than perfect competition. The theory it develops explains trade patterns, especially of industrial countries, and provides an integration between trade and the role of multinational enterprises. Relating current theoretical work to the main body of trade theory, Helpman and Krugman review and restate known results and also offer entirely new material on contestable markets, oligopolies, welfare, and multinational corporations, and new insights on external economies, intermediate inputs, and trade composition.

China's Foreign Trade Mar 24 2022 Since the Open Door Policy of 1978, Chinese policymakers have viewed trade as an active development tool and, similarly, Canadians have increased their recognition of the importance of trade with Asia. This document presents a collection of papers that articulate China's hopes and concerns in the realm of trade and investment. The document surveys the role of trade in China's development strategy, macro-control of foreign exchange, the commodity composition of imports and exports, the organizational structure of China's trade, China and the General Agreement on Trade and Tariffs (GATT), and analyzes Chinese trade with the US, Japan, Western Europe, the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe, the Third World and Canada.
